POWLERS & WELLS, No. 131 Namesu-st., N. Y., and No. 142 Washington-st., Boston.

"The work itself is one of the most temarkable ever printed. It is a condensed presentation of the most fundamental principles of accial science ever yet discovered. I do not besidate to affirm that there is more scientific truth, positively new to the world, and is measely important in its bearings upon the destuny of mankind, contained in it, than was every before concupaed to the same number of pages. I am conscious that I am guilty of no extravagance in predicting that such will be the estimate placed by postering upon the discoveries of Mr. Warten."

207 pages, 50 cents.
"This book deservers a wide circulation. It is not only a true history of Southern Life, but also an interesting tale, written in a charming style, and absumding in beintiful ideas. "Marcus Warland" should follow in the wake of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The one is the antidote, the other the bane, the one is a truthful history; the other arrial said grows by exagerated; and if the friends of the Union are only half as industrious as their opponents, "Marcus Warland" will be read by countless numbers of our countrymes. "—Daily Pennsylvanion.
